Lottie

I know you've met my friend Betty. She's, like, the smartest person I know. Like, so smart. But sometimes, I just feel like she doesn't listen to a word I say. Like the other day when we were going home from school, Lily had a sore arm, so I offered to carry her bag. Betty scoffed at me in a really mean way and said, "Ugh! Leave her be! She can do it by herself. When I broke my arm I did everything by myself!" (glares at camera, rolling eyes) Seriously? I just wish Betty knew that it's okay to ask for help. It doesn't make you weak...it shows your human! That's what my mum says anyway. I just wish Betty would see the world how I see it and know that she isn't alone! We're her friends and we are here to help everyone. Betty really needs to improve her team-working skills and learn that there is no 'I' in team!
